

Paul White, General Manager

Montaluce assembles winery team

Dahlonega, Georgia – April 26, 2007.

Montaluce Winery is pleased to announce the addition of Paul White as general manager of its new winemaking facilities. The winery is now in the construction phase and will host its first crush in October 2007.

With more than ten years experience in the wine industry, Paul comes to Montaluce from Sonoma Valley, California where he most recently served as General Manager at Coturri Winery. He is a graduate of Boston University, holds a law degree, and did a stint as the beverage manager of the Harvard Club. Paul's wife, Star Starr Barron, is a native of Newnan, GA and they have two young daughters. "I am excited to be apart of the Montaluce team and to bring my family to such a beautiful neighborhood as Dahlonega."

Montaluce Winery & Estates is under development and consists of 400 +/- acres bordered by the Chattahoochee National Forrest and the Etowah River. Its winery will feature a 9,500 sq. ft. production facility and include a state of the art gravity flow system with a breathtaking Tuscan inspired design.

Montaluce will also have a gourmet restaurant, 40+ acres of Estate vineyards, river front parks, nature trails, and tennis and spa facilities. The site will include 95 estate home sites and 200 Tuscan style villa homes, town homes, and cottages.
